NEW WET POT BAIN MARIES JOIN BURCO'S COUNTERTOP LINE-UP

Leading catering equipment brand, Burco, continues its new product development programme in the countertop catering equipment sector with the introduction of a new range of wet pot Bain Maries to complement its modular 'plug and go' countertop equipment.

Providing an indispensable cooking solution for a variety of catering establishments – including hotels, restaurants, pubs, cafés, takeaways, canteens and front of house serving – this range of wet pot Bain Maries features two models, available in two or four pot options, with each pot boasting 4.2L capacity.

Featuring a 1000W element that first heats, then maintains water at the required temperature, both models are designed to keep sauces, gravy, custards and pre-cooked foods at serving temperature without scorching or burning. A front access drain valve makes emptying the unit simple for cleaning.

Burco's Brand Manager, Diane Ho, comments: "Alongside our dry heat Bain Marie, these latest models provide catering establishments with added choice and flexibility to cater for different food types. They also further extend our fantastic range of countertop appliances, all of which are simple to use without compromising performance."

Diane adds: "The new wet pot Bain Maries are constructed of stainless steel making them easy to clean and they are hard wearing for use in a commercial kitchen environment. They are also backed by Burco's Commercial three years parts and one year labour warranty for peace of mind."

Together with an electric griddle, boiling top, induction hob and countertop fryer, the range of dry heat and wet pot Bain Maries are designed to form a modular suite of Burco branded countertop appliances perfect for different types of catering provider premises. With standard depth and working height dimensions, these 'plug and go' modular appliances also fit together easily, offering the user the option to create the best combination to fit their needs.

In addition to a commercial warranty, all Burco products are backed by the company's extensive nationwide network of over 180 service engineers and an award winning customer care centre that provides superior after sales support, service and maintenance.
