Volvo S90 wins prestigious Production Car Design of the Year 2015

Volvo Cars' S90 premium sedan has been voted Production Car Design of the Year 2015 by a panel of professional car designers from around the globe.

The award, presented by Car Design News, represents the pinnacle of automotive design awards. The jury is made up of eighteen top car designers from around the world from companies such as Bentley, Daimler, McLaren and Ferrari.

"Our use of high-end materials, classic proportions and controlled surfacing reflects our intention to forge our own path. We don't want to fit in, we want to stand out," said Thomas Ingenlath, Senior Vice President, Design, at Volvo Car Group.

Volvo Cars' interiors have received a lot of attention in recent times thanks to the serene nature of the design and the use of key design elements, exemplified by the elegant air blades and control surfaces in the new S90.

The Volvo S90 was chosen by the eighteen-strong panel of judges from a list of twenty contenders. The premium sedan received praise for its great proportions, authentic use of materials and timeless design.

Commenting on the award, Car Design News editor Owen Ready said that the S90 was recognised “for its priority of clear, calm design over the ‘styling entertainment’ that has been plaguing the industry for too long”.

The award was presented at a ceremony hosted by Car Design News in Geneva.
