Eight Volvo cars, including three plug-ins, named Car and Driver Editors' Choice winners

MAHWAH, NJ (Jan. 30, 2025) – Eight Volvo cars, including two plug-in hybrids and one fully electric, have been named Car and Driver Editors' Choice Award winners for 2025.

The winning vehicles include the XC90 T8 and XC60 T8 luxury plug-in hybrid SUVs, the fully electric EX30 SUV and mild hybrid versions of the XC90, XC60 and XC40 SUV, as well as the V90 Cross Country and V60 Cross Country wagons, which all received recognition from an esteemed group of the most discerning and critical editors in the industry.

As interest in plug-in hybrids continues to grow in the U.S., so do sales of Volvo plug-in hybrid models. For 2025 the Swedish brand also offers three fully electric models: the Volvo EX90, EX40 and EX30.

Winners were selected from nearly 500 models tested. The recognition deems them to be some of the best at fulfilling their mission, maximizing value, and delivering an engaging driving experience.

"Volvo's consistent approach to performance and luxury throughout its lineup wins it several Editors' Choice awards in numerous segments," said Tony Quiroga, Editor-in-Chief of Car and Driver.

Editor's Choice is an award intended to help in-market shoppers cut through the clutter to quickly find the best vehicles in their respective segments. The winners are selected as the results of Car and Driver's industry-leading rigorous instrumented testing; editors' expert assessment of how successfully each candidate vehicle delivers in terms of mission-fulfillment, value, and driving enjoyment; and the ranking each vehicle earns within its market segment. Only vehicles from the 2025 model year, and those that the staff has hands-on driving experience with, are eligible for Editors' Choice.
