All-New Volvo S90 Wins Roadshow Editor's Choice Award

The all-new Volvo S90 luxury sedan has won the Roadshow Editor's Choice Award, presented by CNET.

"The new S90, like the XC90 before it, really impressed the entire Roadshow crew," said Tim Stevens, Roadshow editor-in-chief. "The sophisticated styling always caused my glances to linger, while the interior was the kind of cossetting space I didn't want to leave. But, it's the technology that really shines, from the standard Pilot Assist functionality to support for both Android Auto and CarPlay in the excellent Sensus system, there's really very little to fault here."

Roadshow's Editors' Choice award is issued to those cars that really stand out in their class. Cars that don't just excel in one area but that do so across the board.

"We are very proud such a respected organization as Roadshow recognized the Volvo S90," said Lex Kerssemakers, president and CEO of Volvo Cars USA. "Volvo is now truly up with the world's best luxury carmakers."

The Volvo S90 is available with a powerful and efficient 316-horsepower turbo- and supercharged engine. It is the first car to come standard with semi-autonomous drive functionality and also features a 9-inch tablet like touch screen. The S90 was recently given top safety ratings for its Autonomous Emergency Braking system. Pricing starts under $49,000.
