

For third year straight, Elekta named one of the world's most ethical companies by Ethisphere

Elekta recognized for its critical role in influencing and driving positive change in the business community and societies around the world

STOCKHOLM – Elekta (EKTA-B.ST) announced today that it has again been recognized as one of the World's Most Ethical Companies® by the Ethisphere Institute, a global leader in defining and advancing the standards of ethical business practices.

The honor is bestowed upon companies that influence the business community and societies around the world in order to drive positive change. Elekta is one of only 135 honorees from 22 countries and 47 industries. Grounded in Ethisphere's proprietary Ethics Quotient®, the assessment process includes more than 200 questions on culture, environmental and social practices, ethics and compliance activities, governance, diversity and initiatives to support a strong value chain.

“Elekta prides itself on consistently striving to do the right thing – our employees, customers and, most importantly, people living with cancer are counting on us,” said Caroline Mofors, SVP Chief Compliance and Integrity Officer. “This award confirms for all stakeholders that we are succeeding and making a substantial contribution to society in a responsible way.” This is the third time Elekta has been recognized for its corporate transparency, fairness, ethics and compliance program.

Ethisphere's Chief Executive Officer, Timothy Erblich, said: “Congratulations to everyone at Elekta for earning this recognition. It demonstrates the strength of your values and a commitment to fulfilling them. Your dedication to business integrity, to making a difference in the communities you touch, to elevating your employees and other stakeholders, is exceptional.”
