Bulten wins major FSP contract for an electric vehicle program

Bulten has been awarded a new FSP (Full-Service Provider) contract by a European automotive manufacturer, which is also a new customer for Bulten. The contract relates to supply of fasteners for an electric vehicle program that is under development. The order value is approximately SEK 220 million a year at full production. Deliveries are estimated to start in the third quarter of 2022, reaching full pace by 2025.

"We are proud to be appointed FSP provider of fasteners by a new customer, and for a new electric vehicle program. This is a strategically important contract for us since we are expanding sales of our products within the electric vehicle segment, which is growing strongly," says Anders Nyström, President and CEO of Bulten.
