

THE LEADERS OF THE PACK

Adventure footwear brand Teva (a division of Deckers Outdoor Corporation, NASDAQGS: DECK) has designed two super-light, highly compact multi-purpose shoes which are perfect for putting in your travel bag – whether you’re embarking on a long expedition, getting away from the mundane 9-5 of the city or jumping on a plane for a weekend break. Teva makes shoes for every kind of adventure and terrain so no matter how far off the beaten path you are tempted to stray, they have you covered.

Mush Flyweight

At an extremely light 153g, the Mush Flyweights not only weigh less than an orange but won’t use up any of your crucial holiday baggage allowance due to their easily collapsible design. They feature Teva’s superbly comfortable signature Mush EVA sole material, which molds to your foot’s contours and provide the same comfort as Teva’s highly popular Mush flip-flops. They come in a range of different styles including the trainer inspired Frio and the Mary Jane which are available in a number of varying colours. The Mush Flyweights also look the part regardless of whether you are at home, in the beach bar or around town so if you only need one pair of shoes this summer, be sure to take the Flyweights!

Zilch

The Zilch is the first barefoot sandal in the marketplace. As the thinnest and most flexible shoe in the Teva range, it can even be rolled up into itself making it the ideal footwear for those who like to pack light. Its minimalist construction means that the Zilch can bend and flex naturally with your foot whilst the Spider Original Rubber outsole gives you serious traction. Think sandals with attitude.

About Teva

Teva is a division of California-based Decker Outdoor Corp., and adventure and water have always been at the heart of the Teva proposition. Indeed, the Teva brand was born upon the choppy course of the Colorado River in 1984 when the difficulty experienced by a Grand Canyon river guide when negotiating watery terrain inspired him to revolutionize the footwear industry by the creation of the world’s first sports sandal.

In the 26 years since that first bold step into the Grand Canyon, Teva has put a huge amount of effort, experience and expertise into developing products that inspire the concept of inner adventure and provide wearers with the technology they require to fulfill their chosen adventures.
