

HiQ STRATEGIC PARTNER TO DEKRA INDUSTRIAL AB

DEKRA is a world leader in inspection services and services to improve safety. HiQ has now won a major assignment from DEKRA Industrial AB that focuses on digitalisation and development of the business and operations. The new assignment further consolidates HiQ's successful collaboration with the DEKRA Group.

“DEKRA works in a very important sector, improving safety on our roads, at work and in the home. We are proud to have been chosen to support and assist the company on its digital journey,” says Magnus Gudéhn, Managing Director at HiQ Stockholm.

DEKRA Industrial AB's work e.g. includes periodic inspections of machinery and lifting devices, and it is in this area that the company sees great potential for development.

“We want to offer the market's best and most user-friendly inspection system. We want to simplify the daily work for our colleagues out in the field, by helping them to more easily identify needs and set the appropriate processes in motion. Put simply, we want to help our co-workers to create even more value for the customers they meet,” says Jörgen Backersgård, CEO of DEKRA Industrial in Sweden.

The company seeks to achieve this aim through digital solutions, automated processes and smart connections to other systems. The project is a full-service undertaking for HiQ – from the initial outline to development and implementation, through to administration.

“We were looking for an innovative partner who can deliver the entire chain. HiQ has many examples of helping its customers on their digital journey,” Backersgård explains.

HiQ has good experience of collaboration with the DEKRA Group. Together with DEKRA Automotive AB, HiQ has previously developed a solution that has simplified the car inspection process and reduced inspection times from 30 minutes to just 20.

“We are proud of the confidence and we look forward to helping DEKRA to become an even better partner for its customers. In the long run this will lead to improved safety for all of us. HiQ has proven expertise in the entire chain that connects technology, people and business, which makes us a given partner within digital innovation and simplification,” says Lars Stugemo, President and CEO of HiQ.
