

Lifetime Products Sheds Light on Storage for Military Makeover on "Homeward Bound" on Designing Spaces on Lifetime TV

Company teams up with Designing Spaces for "Project Homeward Bound" makeover series to give Taylor family the extra outdoor storage space they need

(Pompano Beach, FL – CISION – September 24, 2013) Lifetime Products will be featured on the popular home improvement show Designing Spaces™ airing on Lifetime TV in the second episode of the military home makeover series "Designing Spaces of Hope --Project Homeward Bound". Make sure to tune in on Thursday, September 26th at 7:30 am (ET/PT) as the company provides extra outdoor storage space for Purple Heart recipient Jeff Taylor and his family.

The 3-part "Project Homeward Bound" series airing on Lifetime TV September 25–27th at 7:30 am (ET/PT) shows the step-by-step transformation of a dilapidated foreclosed-on house into a completely renovated one for injured soldier Private First Class Jeff Taylor and his family. Taylor, his wife and three children have lived in a cramped mobile home facing daily struggles since his return from Iraq until Designing Spaces™ and their valued partners like Lifetime Products teamed up to renovate the house.

Darrin Gunnell from Lifetime Products was on site at the home's renovation in Jacksonville, Fla. to give tips on picking out the right shed including consideration of the shed's purpose, size, foundation and materials. The 60095 model shed the Taylors receive has steel-reinforced wall, lockable doors, skylights, shatter-proof windows, an attractive exterior and many other features. It comes in a kit for any DIY'er to assemble where 2-3 people can put it together in 4-5 hours.

"Lifetime Products provided a great solution for expanding the Taylor's outdoor storage space and I know the family will enjoy the Shed and start filling it up quickly! We really appreciate Lifetime Products' generosity and are so glad they joined the Project Homeward Bound series to help with this makeover," says Lysa Liemer, Designing Spaces™ on Lifetime Executive VP of Programming and Chief Operating Officer.
