Myles, a lifelong renter, will talk to viewers about the benefits of living in an apartment home and how Apartment Guide, an online source for multifamily rentals, can help prospective residents search for their ideal place to live through their robust online tools. Myles demonstrates how to navigate the site on her iPad, searching for a property based on target criteria such as price, location and floor plan.

Throughout the episode, Myles will share ideas on making an apartment homey and adding personality to a space from her list of top décor and design tips that are budget-friendly and easy to implement -- from using fabric and wallpaper in unexpected ways to dividing a room and adding color with a folding screen.

"It's been exciting to have such a well-known designer like Kim join us on Designing Spaces™ to showcase how easy it is to use the Apartment Guide. So many of our on-the-go viewers will be interested in using this mobile device-friendly tool for finding the right place for their families to live," says Lysa Liemer, Designing Spaces™ Executive VP of Programming and Chief Operating Officer.
