

Jetshop chooses Sten Sturegatan for continued expansion

In the reconstruction and development of Wallenstam's properties at Sten Sturegatan, a stone's throw from Scandinavium arena, the e-commerce system provider Jetshop is being welcomed to newly renovated premises this summer. They will move into almost 700 square meters in a fully activity-based office.

“As an expanding growth company with solutions for the e-commerce industry, we were looking for a new, creative office environment in a good location. Once in place, we will work 100 percent activity-based and create space for dialogue and development in an environment where staff, partners and customers want to and can meet. We are now looking forward to continued expansion and nice new premises at Wallenstam this summer,” says Fredrik Hedblom, CEO of Jetshop.

“It is really great to welcome Jetshop to us and to a creative office environment on Sten Sturegatan. It is a wonderful location with an amazing view through large glass façades facing Scandinavium and Korsvägen. The whole block will get a nice lift through our reconstruction and extension work,” says Anders Forsling, Chief Account Manager, Commercial at Wallenstam in Gothenburg.

In the early 1960s Wallenstam constructed the properties at Sten Sturegatan including 160 apartments with commercial activities on the ground floor. So far in the ongoing renovation, one of three building bodies has been supplemented with 27 apartments through an extension. Meanwhile, a new connecting building of 640 square meters has been constructed between two of the building bodies to further develop the block. Here, Mikado and Jups which already were tenants in the block, have chosen to move in and expand their operations.

Here, parts of the reconstruction at Sten Sturegatan are shown, where the e-commerce system provider Jetshop is being welcomed to newly renovated premises this summer.
