

Syklo selects Prevas as EIC partner for new plastic recycling plant

Syklo, a Finnish circular economy company driving sustainable transformation, has chosen Prevas Finland as its partner for delivering electrical, instrumentation, and control (EIC) systems to a new plastic recycling plant currently under construction in Hyvinkää, Finland.

The facility will play an important role in turning plastic waste into valuable resources through advanced treatment processes – boosting Finland’s plastic recycling capacity by 50%. Prevas will be responsible for ensuring reliable, efficient, and future-proof control systems for the plant’s operations.

“We’re truly proud of the trust Syklo has placed in us,” says Juha Ritala, President of Prevas Finland. “This collaboration is an exciting step in the green transition – and we see it as the beginning of a long-term partnership, where Prevas’ broad expertise in industrial automation, digitalization, and sustainability-driven solutions can support Syklo’s future growth.”

With decades of experience in industrial technology and smart automation, Prevas helps customers design and implement robust solutions and systems that ensure operational safety, energy efficiency, and optimal performance. This project reflects Prevas’ mission to contribute to a more sustainable industry – through ingenuity, collaboration, and forward-thinking technology.
