Rejlers acquires telecom business from Finnish consulting firm Sitowise

Rejlers has acquired the telecom business of Sitowise, which is one of the largest infrastructure and construction consulting companies in Finland. With the acquisition, Rejlers telecom division in Finland will be twice as large and strengthens the offering of services related to the maintenance, design and construction of telecommunications networks. The acquisition means that Rejlers takes over business agreements, customers and 40 former employees in Sitowise's telecom business.

"New opportunities with 5G will change the industry and society at large, and with this acquisition we can even better support our customers in this transformation", says Seppo Sorri, Country manager of Rejlers in Finland.

"We have for a long time had many dedicated employees in telecom and for us it was important to find an owner who takes the business forward. The transition to Rejlers, we believe, gives our experts the opportunity to develop and become part of a strong, learning organisation that adds value to customers", says Pekka Eloholma, President and CEO of Sitowise.

Sitowise's telecom services include the design and construction of mobile networks and strengthens Rejlers current service offering in the sector. With the acquisition, Rejlers now has more than 300 employees in the Nordic region with expertise in telecom.
