Rejlers renews framework agreement with Agder Energi in Norway

Agder Energi in Norway has signed a new two-year framework agreement with Rejlers concerning engineering consultancy services. The two companies have worked closely together for many years and Rejlers will contribute with design and advice within areas such as electric power, electricity, inspection and the environment, with Agder Energi Nett as the most important customer.

"It means a lot to us with renewed confidence from Agder Energi. They play an important role in the electrification of Norway and will start major maintenance and development projects going forward, where we look forward to contribute with our knowledge," says Tone Søfting, Head of Division Energy in Rejlers Norway.

"Rejlers is an important supplier for us, both in the design of distribution networks and other consultancy services. We have a large portfolio of projects in the coming years related to the connection of new customers as well as rebuilding and strengthening the existing network. We have worked well together for many years and look forward to our future cooperation," says Jan Erik Eldor, CEO of Agder Energi in Norway.

The framework agreement runs for two years with the possibility of an extension for four years.
