Rejlers awarded contract for Oriola's new high-tech distribution centre in Järvenpää

Rejlers has been selected by Oriola, a leading pharmaceutical distribution company, to provide technical consultancy services for the construction of a cutting-edge distribution centre in Järvenpää, Finland. The new facility marks a significant strategic project for Oriola, featuring scalable, highly automated logistics and ambitious sustainability targets.

Oriola is investing EUR 110–120 million in the development of the new distribution hub, which aims to enhance operational efficiency, support sustainable practices and improve customer service. Construction of the approximately 30,000 square metre facility is set to begin in the first quarter of 2026.

Rejlers will deliver a comprehensive range of multidisciplinary engineering services, including HSE management, principal and architectural design, electrical and ICT engineering, structural engineering, HVAC and fire safety design, energy and lifecycle consulting, and geotechnical engineering. The building is being designed to meet BREEAM Excellent certification standards and is expected to be 50% more energy-efficient than conventional facilities.

“We are proud to contribute to one of Finland’s most significant logistics developments. With Rejlers’ broad expertise and track record in complex projects, we are well-positioned to help deliver a facility built on sustainable and future-proof solutions. Our collaboration with Oriola is a great opportunity to demonstrate our capabilities and support their growth and sustainability goals,” says Mikko Vaahersalo, CEO of Rejlers Finland.

Oriola is a publicly listed Finnish health and wellbeing company that supplies pharmaceuticals to pharmacies and healthcare providers in Finland and Sweden. The company plays a vital role in securing the reliable distribution of medicines and maintaining robust healthcare infrastructure in both countries.
