INDUSTRY DEVELOPMENT

STRAX sells into all key channels ranging from telecom operators, mass merchants and consumer electronics to lifestyle retailers and direct to consumers online. In recent times, technological explosions have slowed down with device manufacturers struggling to impress customers with game-changing solutions. As a result the long-tail halo device launch effect has reduced. Consumers are increasingly opting to keep existing devices for longer and refresh accessories rather than their device. The market has also witnessed an increase in SIM-only contract renewals where consumers are able to negotiate better rates for services instead of replacing their device. These factors have resulted in an increase in demand for a deeper SKU assortment into second tier mobile devices in protection but also for power, audio and connectivity products as consumers upgrade their existing accessories.

Power: In our commodity business we expect solid unit sales growth but a drop in average selling price (ASP) will see this segment stay fairly flat on revenues. New technologies, such as wireless charging and power delivery products, are compatible with the latest halo devices, and we see this trend increasing showing growth in 2018.

Protection: Units and revenues are expected to grow here. We see second tier devices increasing in share as they take the core technologies from major brands and work into mid-priced products. In 2017, we saw further expansion into the protective segment, growth in our licensed business and gains in our screen protection. The slow launch of iPhone 8/8+ and later than expected arrival of the iPhone X undoubtedly impacted the market.

Audio: In 2017, we saw the power of Amazon's Alexa platform inject life into the speaker market. Building on its success in the USA/Canada, Amazon launched Alexa in the UK and benefitted from being first to market. Google's range launched later offering greater language and contextual impact to consumers. We see this trend continuing and growing as audio brands add voice capabilities into their portfolios.

The market for headphones also benefitted from transitions away from wired products. STRAX enjoyed growth in its wireless headphone portfolio and looks to 2018, and beyond, to grow this further on an international stage.

COMMENTS FROM THE CEO

”The year started reasonably well and I am pleased overall with our performance in the first quarter. The House of Brands positioning coupled with our distribution capabilities in Western Europe has proved extremely successful with our customers, as evidenced by our Vodafone UK contract. We have now completely taken over the category management of mobile accessories across all of Vodafone channels. Our strong performance in North America has continued through our proprietary and licensed brands, and this has further contributed to improvement in our gross margin.

During the first quarter sales increased 8.6% over same period last year. Sales in the first quarter of 2018 were MEUR 22.1(20.3) and EBITDA amounted to MEUR 1.0 (0.6). TTM sales amounted to 102.1 (92.1) corresponding to growth of 10.9%, whilst TTM EBITDA amounted to MEUR 9.4 (8.3) corresponding to growth of 13.3% confirming that our scalable growth model is materializing. Growth is mainly driven by our continuous investment in North America and increased share of proprietary brands contributes to higher share of profitability.

The retail landscape is changing fast. Online retail is seeing strong growth in all of our addressable markets, whilst traditional brick and mortar retailers are challenged for sales and store footfall. The retail industry remains relatively robust but with rapid digitization we understand our efforts in e-commerce must be further intensified. STRAX intends to generate more than 20% of sales through online retail in 2020, a tenfold increase from current level. We have launched several important initiatives that are intended to enhance our online sales and distribution capabilities, as well as our online retail presence of our House of Brands.

Our One Company – One System business process was successfully implemented during the first quarter and we are now executing against the objectives of the new process. We are achieving greater synergies through more centralized support functions, which is breaking down silos, and our global inventory is now available for the entire sales organization at any given time. We firmly believe that this process will not only enable us to operate a significantly leaner organization, but our global inventory approach will eventually lead to increased stock availability, higher sales and reduction in inventory.

I’m content - yet not completely satisfied – with where STRAX is as a company. However, I’m fully confident in the team to continue to execute our 2020 strategy in order to achieve our objectives and deliver exceptional shareholder value along the way.”

Future development

STRAX will experience growth in Western Europe while at the same time invest and grow at an accelerated rate in North America and strategic markets in ROW. STRAX will furthermore invest in the e-commerce channel in an effort to improve margins and diversify its traditional retail customer base. We expect a higher growth rate in 2018 compared to 2017, and the STRAX scalable business model is expected to deliver a higher growth rate in EBITDA compared to growth in sales.STRAX has experienced positive development in both sales and profit in recent years. This development is expected to continue. Currently the industry is undergoing consolidation and STRAX intends to play an active role in the ongoing consolidation process. We expect growth to continue, and STRAX scalable business model is expected to deliver a higher growth rate in EBITDA compared to growth in sales.
