

Speqta's founders sell parts of their holdings to repay loans

Speqta's ("SPEQT") two founders have sold parts of their holdings in Speqta to repay private loans which aimed to finance Speqta's expansion.

Speqta's two founders Andreas Friis and Jonas Söderqvist have on Friday 15 January 2021 sold parts of their holdings in Speqta. The reason for the sale is to repay private loans they had initially taken in 2017 when they signed a senior convertible note, issued by the general meeting. The convertibles notes were exchanged for shares in 2019 and the shares then became collaterals for the private loans. When the loans now are to be repaid, the founders must sell parts of their holdings.

The transaction was accomplished as a block sale outside the market where Andreas Friis sold 1,430,957 shares and Jonas Söderqvist 1,569,044 shares. After the transaction their holdings are; Andreas Friis 3,154,013 shares, 4.8% of votes and capital, Jonas Söderqvist 3,458,377 shares, 5.3% of votes and capital. The shares were sold at an average of SEK 4.31.

Andreas Friis, founder, Director and Chief Strategy Officer, comments:

"Speqta is an innovative and profitable tech company with impressive growth and a strong position in performance-based marketing. I'm looking forward to be part of the company's continued expansion and to develop Speqta's strategic investments in data and AI as we have been doing since 2003. Any further divestments of shares are not on the agenda neither for me nor my co-founder."
