PRESS RELEASE

Autoliv receives Automotive News PACE Pilot recognition for the innovation Omni Safety™

(Stockholm, Sweden, November 18, 2026)* – Autoliv, Inc. (NYSE: ALV and SSE: ALIVsdb), has received recognition in the 2026 Automotive News PACE Pilot program for Omni Safety™ an innovative mobility safety solution.

The Automotive News PACE Pilot program recognizes innovations from suppliers that have reached a working pilot demonstration stage but have not yet been commercialized through a contracted sale.

“Receiving PACE Pilot recognition is a great acknowledgment of the innovation and expertise of our teams,” said Fabien Dumont, Executive Vice President & Chief Technology Officer of Autoliv. “As mobility evolves, we continue to develop safety solutions that address new vehicle designs and future mobility scenarios. Our Omni Safety solution demonstrates how we combine our deep knowledge of automotive safety with advanced technologies to support our vision of Saving More Lives.”

Omni Safety™ represents Autoliv’s system-level approach to occupant protection. The solution includes seatbelt, airbags, and pin puller, which are integrated with the seat and vehicle interfaces into one seat-centric system designed to better protect occupants in reclined seating positions. It reduces downward sliding and the risk of injuries to the head, neck, pelvis, and lumbar spine, while maintaining comfort.

The recognition reflects extensive collaboration across Autoliv’s product development, engineering, customer, innovation, and business teams. It also highlights Autoliv’s ability to combine deep safety expertise with solutions addressing emerging trends in vehicle design, automated driving, and occupant protection.

In 2025, Autoliv received Automotive News PACE Pilot recognition for the Bernoulli™ Airbag Module.
