Apex vertical transport master classes take off

Apex Lifts has successfully launched a ‘Vertical Transport Master Class’ programme at its head office in Sidcup, South East London. The classes designed for property and facilities management teams, teach the basic principles of lifts operation and safety management.

The classes are already proving popular with Apex’s existing customers, including major corporations and housing associations such as Hanover and Central & Cecil (C&C). So much so, Apex is now extending the offer of master classes to non-client organisations too.

Apex Service manager, John Roberts, co-hosts the master classes. He says: “All the feedback we’ve had has been incredibly positive. Delegates leave the classes able to deal with any lift problems with much greater knowledge, and thus in a safer, calmer fashion. Plus, we have a bit of fun while we do it. There’s even a trophy up for grabs for the person who scores highest in the quiz at the end.”

The master classes use a combination of classroom education, video and practical demonstrations to look at different lift operating systems and common safety hazards, and how to manage them efficiently and effectively.

“It is vital those who are managing lifts have a good understanding of how they operate, their safety systems and how hazards can be avoided,” says Warren Jenchner, Managing Director. “At Apex, we are always looking at new ways to improve reliability and safety performance. Educating those who look after lifts on a day-to-day basis is sure to have a positive impact.”

About Apex Lifts

Apex Lifts is London's largest independent lift manufacturing and elevator servicing company. With over four decades of trading excellence, Apex maintains, repairs, refurbishes, installs and manufactures quality bespoke lifts throughout London and Southern England.

Apex Lift's philosophy has remained unchanged for 43 years: Our commitment to excellence will always be demonstrated in the service we provide. The first company within the UK lift industry to be awarded all three major quality management accreditations, over the years Apex has secured some of the most prestigious lift contracts, including for the Royal Households.

Delivered from our in-house facilities Apex provides flexible out of hours amenities and lift services, and whilst no installation or service contract is ever the same, every one conforms to stringent European and British Standards. Apex Lifts is dedicated to providing a standard of product and service that will not just meet your needs, but exceed your expectations.

At Apex, we understand how important employees are, and pride ourselves on our training and continued development of apprentices and staff. We have an unrivalled team of highly skilled personnel who have dedicated many years of hard work to serving our business and our customers. Every Apex Lift's staff member must display at pre-appointment stage obvious communication and people skills, in addition to understanding the importance of a flexible 'can do' approach.

Apex Lifts is an EAL approved assessment centre and the Apex Training Academy provides support not only for our own staff, but for our clients too, so you can get a real insight in to operating and maintaining your own lifts and elevators.
