Design

Boss Design will showcase an impressive line-up of new products at this year's flagship event. Echoing the design vision and manufacturing expertise associated with this iconic brand, the new products extend the company's successful Soft Office range and include a sofa collection and single seat work booths.

The new sofa collection is ideal for use in breakout spaces. Designed to accommodate those offices where space is at a premium, it features a compact footprint and can be assembled on site in the event of restricted access. With a simple, clean and distinctive design, the corners are rounded in a friendly shape with oversized piping featuring on the back, arms and seat to create a cohesive design. Available in high back and low back variants, the sofas be may be further personalised with contrasting upholstery on the inner and outer surfaces.

Also being displayed is Peek - a single seat, high-backed work booth that was successfully showcased at Clerkenwell Design Week. To complete the family line-up, a low-backed version, Boo, will also be unveiled at the show.

Commenting on its presence at the show, Brian Murray, Managing Director of The Boss Design Group says: "100% Design provides the perfect platform to introduce our new collections. Communication, collaboration, sustainability and flexibility are just some of the key driving forces behind the design of office furniture today and our latest products reflect these trends "
