Danko Maras has been appointed as Intrum's new CFO

Danko Maras is currently CFO at the confectionary company Cloetta.

Danko Maras has been CFO at Cloetta since 2012 and previously held leading positions at Unilever, in locations such as the U.S., the Netherlands, Switzerland and Germany. Cloetta is listed on Nasdaq Stockholm Mid Cap and has 2600 employees in 13 European countries. In 2017, Cloetta had revenues of SEK 5.8 billion.

"I am delighted to welcome Danko Maras to Intrum. We stand on the threshold exciting opportunities in the years ahead, and will continue to create value for both clients and owners, by continuing to develop Intrum according to the strategic goals that we have presented. Prioritized areas are organic growth within credit management services, future development of our analytical capabilities, continued investments in debt portfolios as well as additional acquisitions. Danko Maras has solid experience from working in an international environment, and a profile that matches our needs in developing Intrum in the upcoming years", says Mikael Ericson, President and CEO of Intrum.

"Intrum is an attractive company that has begun a very interesting journey as the undisputed market leader in the Credit Management Services sector. I believe that my experiences from working at an international, listed company will be valuable in my new role at Intrum, taking an active part in the ongoing transformation as well as working towards a continued transparent and good relationship with all stakeholders in the capital market. I really look forward to this new challenge", says Danko Maras.

Thomas Moss, acting CFO, will continue in this position until July 16, 2018, until Danko Maras enter his duties. He will then return to his regular position as Director of Group Business Control at Intrum.
