About Impact Coatings

Impact Coatings delivers world-leading technology for PVD-coatings of fuel cell plates and vehicle reflectors. PVD is a method of, under vacuum, producing thin layers of metals and ceramics – surface coatings that maximize performance and durability. Impact Coatings' patented technology, for example, increases the efficiency of fuel cells 25-30 percent compared to other solutions. The company is strategically present in the international market for hydrogen-fueled vehicles, which is approaching a significant breakthrough.

The company's shares trade since 2004 on the Nasdaq First North exchange (Nasdaq OMX Nordic).
