

Fredahl Rydéns and OrganoClick invite to a press event for the launch of the eco-coffin Saga

After 20 years of research and many years of hard and challenging work, OrganoClick and Fredahl Rydéns, Scandinavia's leading supplier of burial products, have finally reached the goal of their mutual project. The result is a coffin in which only half the amount of wood fiber is used, thanks to the unique production process where the coffin is 3D-moulded, using the biocomposite OrganoComp® based on Swedish wood fibers. Fredahl Rydéns and OrganoClick are now inviting to a press event the 10th of May for the launch of the burial coffin Saga.

The press event and launch will be held in Stockholm in conjunction with the yearly convention of Sweden's Funeral home's Association. At the press event, the coffin Saga and its production process will be showcased. Key people from the funeral business, including most of Sweden's funeral homes will attend. The launch set the start of serial production for both the Swedish market and several export markets.
