

Advenica initiates partnership with OPSWAT

Advenica and OPSWAT have initiated a strategic collaboration on security solutions. The collaboration gives an opportunity to offer customers an integrated, comprehensive solution for secure file transfer.

Protecting information using high assurance cyber security solutions is something that more and more companies and authorities realize the importance of. Advenica provides expertise and unique, technologically advanced, sustainable and future-proof cyber security solutions.

To be able to offer customers more complete solutions, the company is now initiating a collaboration with OPSWAT, a global company that offers the platform MetaDefender. This platform is an advanced antivirus solution that, together with high assurance data diodes and the File Security Screener solution from Advenica, becomes a complete solution for secure file transfer and import. The cooperation means that customers can have a single contact area for the entire security solution, which is appreciated and often is a requirement from companies from a security point of view.

The OPSWAT partnership with Advenica makes isolated networks safer and easier to operate, says Benny Czarny, OPSWAT founder and CEO. The integration with Advenica's data diode ensures one-way data flow from OPSWAT Kiosk to OPSWAT Vault while regenerating, scanning and protecting the content flow to and from the isolated network.

We are pleased with the cooperation with OPSWAT, which means that we combine our solutions into an integrated and turn-key solution for secure file transfer and import. Customers who have high security requirements can now be offered a
