

Advenica receives a new order, worth SEK 26 million, from a Swedish authority

Advenica, the Swedish supplier of cybersecurity solutions, has received a new order from a Swedish authority. The deal is worth SEK 26 million and deliveries will be ongoing during 2020.

Advenica is a long-established and well trusted supplier of cybersecurity solutions that protects critical information. A Swedish authority has now placed a new order for products and services. The products are based on Advenica's patented technology and meet the authorities' requirements for communication of TOP SECRET information.

Delivery of the order will start immediately, but most of it will be delivered by the end of 2020.

The nature of the industry and the circumstances regarding the delivery and the customer means that no further information about the end customer will be published.

We work with customers whose operations require high-assurance solutions to safeguard their most valuable information. Advenica's products have futureproof technology, are user-friendly with exceptional reliability and includes high-assurance technology. All this combined simplifies and safeguards the security of any nation.
