

Advenica receives a new order, worth MSEK 20, from a Swedish public organisation

Advenica, the Swedish provider of cybersecurity solutions, has received an order from a Swedish public organisation regarding product development. The customer gives Advenica renewed confidence through an agreement worth MSEK 20 with delivery during 2021 and 2022.

Advenica is an established provider of cybersecurity with customers in both defense, government and companies in critical infrastructure. The new order, worth MSEK 20, comes from a Swedish public organisation, a customer with whom the Company has a long collaboration. The agreement is a continuation of a previous product development assignment within the same product area.

In connection with the agreement, a framework agreement with the same customer has also been entered - an agreement that enables future product sales and services.

The customer's renewed confidence in Advenica is very gratifying. The order shows that Advenica's expertise and knowledge in network segmentation and secure information flows are top class. It is also gratifying that Advenica's agile product development is gaining attention and is providing added value for the customer.
