

Advenica receives new order, worth 2.3 MSEK, on cybersecurity products from Wiener Netze GmbH

Advenica has received another new order for high assurance cybersecurity products from the Austrian energy company Wiener Netze GmbH.

In our day and age, high-tech companies face ever greater challenges. In addition to digitalisation and the rapid pace of progress in technology, guaranteeing data security has become one of the biggest concerns. Especially major critical infrastructure facilities like energy utilities represent an obvious target for sabotage.

To provide complete protection for SCADA systems in operational technology, Cross Domain Solutions should be used. These products enable strictly controlled and filtered information exchange between domains with different security or protection needs. Advenica has a range of Cross Domain Solutions – both for unidirectional information exchange and for bidirectional information exchange.

The Austrian office of Advenica now has received another new order from the energy company Wiener Netze GmbH regarding Cross Domain solutions. The new order is worth MSEK 2.3, concerns products as well as training, security consulting & development and will be delivered until 2028.

We are very pleased that Wiener Netze GmbH continues to rely on us and our products for their information security. With our solutions their network cannot be compromised and is sure to be protected against hacking, theft and data loss.
