

Advenica signed strategic agreement with Finnish Government organisation

Advenica has signed a maintenance and support agreement with a Finnish Government organisation. This is in-line with our communicated strategy to expand internationally. The Advenica products has been under intensive evaluation during the last year and has proven to meet the customer expectations.

Advenica has signed a maintenance and support agreement with a Finnish Government organisation. The direct business value is modest, but the deal has great strategic importance for Advenica as an entry into the Finnish market. The Advenica products has been under intensive evaluation during the last year and has proven to meet the customer expectations. The agreement runs for three years, with options for extension. Included in the agreement is additional units that will be used for support, testing and training. The plan is to continue the roll-out of the Advenica technology during the coming years.

”We are very pleased that such a demanding customer has approved our solution and has decided to enter into a maintenance and support agreement” says Andreas Linde, CEO. ”Advenica has always the customer in focus and providing comprehensive and committed help to customers is crucial for long-term relationships”
