Husqvarna Group notes European Commission's disclosure in robotic mower anti-dumping investigation

Husqvarna Group has today received the European Commission's disclosure of essential facts and considerations in the ongoing anti-dumping investigation concerning EU imports of robotic lawnmowers originating in the People's Republic of China.

Issuance of the disclosure is a procedural step provided for under EU trade defence law. It is confidential, and Husqvarna Group will not comment on its content. Interested parties, including Husqvarna Group, now have the opportunity to submit comments to the Commission within the deadline it has set. The Commission will consider these comments before reaching its conclusions. The statutory deadline for a decision on definitive measures is 19 January 2027.

Husqvarna Group has confidence in the Commission's process, which is evidence-based and conducted in accordance with EU law and the WTO framework. We remain confident in the substance of the case we have presented and in the evidence submitted, and we will continue to cooperate fully with the investigation.
